How did the Fund perform over the last year?

For the twelve-month period ending May 31, 2026, the Amana Participation Fund Investor Shares returned 4.12%. For the same period, the Fund's primary benchmark, the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Bond Total Return Index returned 3.26%, and its secondary benchmark, the Bloomberg Custom USD 0+ Sukuk Dual Capped Unhedged USD Index returned 5.14%. The Fund's underperformance relative to these benchmarks is primarily attributable to differences in the Fund's investment objective and portfolio composition, including its underweight position in sovereign issues relative to the respective benchmark weightings.

As of May 31, 2026, the portfolio held 81 investments, comprising 80 sukuk, one murabaha, and cash, with an option-adjusted duration of 3.39 years, a slight decrease from 3.42 years in the prior year. The decision to maintain a broadly similar duration profile reflects a strategic allocation emphasizing ownership of high-quality issuers while reducing duration risk in an interest rate environment marked by heightened volatility in longer-maturity securities.

The Amana Participation Fund reported total assets of more than $321 million as of May 31, 2026, up from more than $257 million in the same period in 2025. We take great pride in offering the Islamic community one of the only fully dedicated Islamic-compliant fixed income mutual fund focused on capital preservation and current income.
